

Libby Moore

Catalogue

‘Please Stay’

Native animal and plant life is disappearing all around us. Within the Hornsby Shire where I live, there are nearly sixty endangered and vulnerable species, or populations, of amphibians, reptiles, birds, mammals and invertebrates. As a result of the increasing number of natural disasters such as flood and fire, together with a fast-growing human population needing more space to live, the habitats of our endemic wildlife are being wiped out. I have selected just seven creatures, the broad-headed snake, red-crowned toadlet, southern brown bandicoot, yellow-bellied sheath-tailed bat, spotted-tailed quoll, glossy black cockatoo and the little lorikeet, from my local area, who need protection to prevent their disappearance in the wildlife.

Please Stay, Yellow-Bellied
Sheath-Tailed Bat

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/3

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

Please Stay, Southern Brown
Bandicoot

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/2

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

Please Stay, Glossy Black
Cockatoo

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/3

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

Please Stay, Little Lorikeet

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/3

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

Please Stay, Red-Crowned
Toadlet

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/3

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

Please Stay, Spotted-Tailed
Quoll

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/2

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

Please Stay, Seven Species
Linocut on Arches paper, edition 1/2
76 x 96.5cm framed
$2900

Please Stay, Broad-Headed
Snake

Linocut on Arches paper,
edition 2/5

42.5 x 52cm framed

$850

